Spotlight on Grace: What Does Grace Mean to You?

Our annual fall stewardship season, when we invite everyone to make a financial pledge to support Grace Church in the year to come, begins next week. A parishioner told me recently that she loves this time of year in church because each Sunday, for four weeks, we hear from a parishioner about what Grace means to them and why they give to Grace. These testimonials are always heart-felt and often moving and even inspiring.

We hear from parishioners who've been at Grace for 80 years and folks who've joined us only in the last year or two. But one thing I don't think we've ever heard from these testimonials is: "I joined Grace Church because it was the closest parish to my home." Grace is a church that people actively seek out to make their spiritual home, and it is inspiring to hear directly from parishioners about how they came to Grace and why they make their home here, of all the places they could worship each Sunday.

Next week, you'll receive a letter from me inviting you to make a pledge, in thanksgiving for the blessings of God in your life, to the work of Grace Church. But even before I issue that invitation, I want to invite you to come to church to hear from your fellow parishioners about what Grace means to them and to take the opportunity to reflect on what your church means to you. That's a worthwhile endeavor any week of the year.

God's Peace,
Jonathan

An Occasion for a Special Coffee Hour

We are so fortunate each and every week to delight in the wonderful array of potluck offerings that Grace parishioners so generously prepare for Coffee Hour. Collectively, you all make coffee hour such a terrific time of fellowship. With this Sunday being the kickoff Sunday for our annual stewardship campaign, we thought we might encourage just a little something extra for our coffee hour spread. Thank you!

Two Upcoming Events at ECC

As anyone who attended last year's inaugural Halloween Village event at the Episcopal Conference Center will attest, this is an incredibly fun and family friendly event! Trick-or-Treat down the row of softly spooky cabins decked out by costumed volunteers from area Episcopal churches. Mark your calendars, and click here for directions, and be sure to join in the fun.

An ECC Conference for Parents The Episcopal Conference Center in Pascoag, RI will offer an adult conference November 9-11, 2018 called Seeking Divine Direction: Navigating Your Child's Teenage Years. Take time away for rest, renewal, and fun at ECC for the weekend while exploring topics like: Understanding the teenage experience, changing roles as parents from manager to consultant, and how caring for ourselves allows us to be better parents. Conference fees including lodging and meals range from $200 - $250. Please find additional information, and register online here.

Please visit the website of the Episcopal Conference Center for information on upcoming events, including winter camps for youths in 7th through 11th grade, and consider supporting the ministry of the ECC through the Diocesan website here.
